MONTHLY TREE SPECIAL

YOSHINO CHERRY

Origin: Prunus × yedoensis

Mature size: 40-50feet

Description: The Yoshino cherry tree is a deciduous, flowering tree. The almond scented blooms of a Yoshino cherry tree are clusters of white or pink. The bloom time usually lasts for about two weeks, and then the leaves will appear. The glossy, dark green leaves of the Yoshino cherry tree turn yellow in the fall. This tree, like all other flowering cherry trees, prefers full sun and well-drained soil in order to grow and flower properly. The Yoshino cherrv tree works great as a specimen planting, or as a border or mass planting in an open area.
